34 Flood Refugees Taken Home After Ten Days In Circleville

285 STAY UNTIL ASKED TO LEAVE FOR RIVER CITY

All Returning Must Provide for Themselves, Red Cross Authorities Announce

Thirty-four Portsmouth flood refugees, who have been "guests" of Circleville relief organizations since Wednesday, Jan. 27, left for their homes at 11:36 a. m. Saturday on a Norfolk & Western train.

Eighteen of the group were men, nine were women, and seven, children. They were taken to the depot in trucks furnished by the quartermaster unit. Those released from the various housing quarters were: Methodist church, 10; United Brethren church, 1; Presbyterian church, 4; Redman lodge, 6; Lutheran church, 2; Eagles lodge, 9; and Woodman lodge, 2.

Return "On Their Own"

Carl C. Leist, Red Cross chairman, was notified Friday evening by C. F. Rolland, Red Cross disaster relief director at Portsmouth, that all those who were anxious to return to their homes "strictly on their own" could be released.

Mr. Rolland said many of the homes were still under repair. He explained those released would have to make their own arrangements for food, shelter and clothing in the stricken area. He preferred only able-bodied men, who would assist in cleaning up the city and homes, be returned on the Saturday train. Mr. Rolland said definite word concerning the return of other refugees in the city would be given, probably on Monday.

Refugees in all buildings were kept inside after the evening meal and E. C. Ebert, local relief chairman, visited the buildings and explained the information to the refugees.

Became "Restless"

The release order pleased local relief workers as in some of the headquarters the refugees were restless, especially after learning those housed in Columbus were returned to Portsmouth Friday. Many, however, appreciative of care relief organizations had given them, explained they would not return until they were ordered released and they knew conditions in Portsmouth satisfactory for their return.

All refugees leaving the city Saturday signed a release. It follows: "We, the undersigned Portsmouth flood refugees, do hereby agree to return to Portsmouth entirely on our own and will not ask for a place to sleep, food or clothing from any of the relief or welfare organization in Portsmouth, and are released by the Circleville flood relief committee and Red Cross entirely at our own request."

After signing the release the refugees were given cards for their transportation to Portsmouth. The cards stated, "This is to certify that (name) is a Portsmouth flood refugee and has been properly released and is entitled to (Continued on Page Eight)"

Rescue Crew Removes Five At Blast Scene

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 6—(UP)—Rescue crews have lifted five bodies out of the steaming wreckage of a gas explosion caused by the flood, second district police headquarters reported early today.

Two more bodies were seen in the debris.

Officers who supervised rescue operations in the glare of emergency spotlights said there was no way of determining how many more may have died in the blast and fire which shook Louisville as it struggled to clear its streets of the wreckage of the flood which had already cost 243 lives.

No Bodies Identified

None of the recovered bodies was identified immediately. Police had only the names of four missing persons to aid them. They were:

Robert Hawkins, grocery store manager; Joseph Bacon, grocery store clerk; Mohler G. Breckenridge, tire shop owner; Mrs. Rose McCrawley, apartment resident.

Fifteen persons were injured in the explosion which demolished a three-story brick structure at the corner of Floyd and Market streets. The city hospital, which treated them for cuts and burns, said 14 of them were:

Mrs. Mary Smith, 51, who was blown across the street by the blast; Albert Pellegrini, 37; Madeline Hicks, 4; Mrs. Nannie Mitchell, 24; Carl Mitchell, 3; Arthur Unglaub, 48; William Thompson, 36; Thrown from his bed by the explosion; Israel Manfield, 40; M. Schaeffer, 50; Venita Duval, 9; Zelma Alberts, 29; Ruby Ferris, 31; Ed Cable; and Wayman Brown, Negro clerk.

More than 20 families live in the building's apartments. Business had been resumed in the drug store, chain grocery, and tire shop on the first floor.

TWO SHIPS SEND SOS CALLS FROM SOUTH ATLANTIC

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 6—(UP)—Ald was rushed today to two vessels in distress in the South Atlantic.

The El Occidente, a freighter of the Southern Pacific Steamship lines, reported a damaged rudder about 100 miles due east of Norfolk and asked that a coast guard boat go out and stand by.

The Norwegian steamer Rigel, listing badly from shifting cargo 500 miles due east of Savannah, Ga., also asked for coast guard assistance. Headquarters here dispatched the cutter Modoc from Wilmington, N. C., to the vessel's position.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 6—(UP)—The master of the S. S. Tela advised coast guard headquarters last night that he was standing by the disabled 20-ton schooner William A. Morse, of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, about 150 miles east of Fernandina, Fla.

Three men were seen clinging to the rigging of the schooner, he said.

LONDON, Feb. 6—(UP)—The British trawler Amethyst, 357 tons, missing in the north Sea for a week with a crew of 17, was believed today to have been lost with all hands. British destroyers abandoned the search.

BODIES OF FIVE, HANDS TIED, FOUND IN OCEAN

SAINT-GILLES-DE-VIE, France, Feb. 6—(UP)—Bodies of five men, with their hands tied behind them, have been thrown up by the sea in the last few days.

WOMAN, CHILD RESCUED FROM MOUNTAIN SNOW

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 6—(UP)—Mrs. Earl Ranear of Leadville, Colo., and her two and a half year old daughter were rescued today from an automobile stalled in a mountain snow drift where they were marooned for 15 days.

No trace was found of the child's father, who left the car 13 days ago to seek aid. It was believed certain that he had perished in the bitter winter blizzards that have raged through the ranges in the Lake Tahoe district for the last two weeks.

Mrs. Ranear said she and her child had existed on a half box of oatmeal and a jar of mustard.

Four carpenters, breaking out of the snow-blocked Lake Tahoe country on crudely improvised skis, discovered the woman and child in their sedan late yesterday. After giving Mrs. Ranear what provisions they carried, the carpenters came on to Carson City where a rescue crew was hastily organized.

MAESTRO SWINGS WICKED LEFT IN NIGHT CLUB TIFF

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6—(UP)—Ben Bernie, the orchestra leader, emerged today as the hero of Los Angeles' latest one-punch fight. A man in uniform who said he was a lieutenant commander of the navy, and identified only as "B. Walker," was the recipient of Bernie's Sunday punch.

"Let's forget all about it," said Bernie, proudly exhibiting a sprained finger and skinned knuckles. "He became annoying, said one word too much and I popped him."

Ringsiders at the night club where the affair occurred, said it was a lethal left that Bernie uncorked. The navy man went down for the count and it was 20 minutes before his head cleared sufficiently for him to return and apologize.

"He made cracks about my cigar first," Bernie said. "That was personal enough. Then he got more personal."

Buried Eight Days in a Mine!

Va., and removed to a hospital at nearby Clarksburg—safe despite his harrowing experience. The dog pictured above with Johnston aided the rescue party in locating the lost mail carrier.

XENIA FIGHTING B. & O. RAILROAD FOR PROTECTION

XENIA, Feb. 6—(UP)—Litigation against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad continued to pile up here today as the city of Xenia sought to complete installation of certain types of signals for "public safety and convenience."

A third civil suit against the railroad, asking judgments totaling $400 and covering another eight-day period during which the B. & O. allegedly has violated its Xenia franchise by failure to install "distance" and flasher signals at three crossings was filed by City Solicitor W. A. Miller.

The city now has filed three such actions, asking judgments totaling $800. The city commission has set Jan. 15 as the deadline for installing the signals.

The city also has prepared an affidavit charging the railroad violated a city ordinance by blocking five crossings simultaneously for 25 minutes on Jan. 29. The ordinance states that no crossing may be blocked more than five minutes.

A $20,000 issue was made at that time for relief $8,000 is still to be paid on these bonds. The bonds have been paid off at the rate of $4,000 yearly.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6—(UP)—Miss Florence Hurlbut, fleeing by plane from her sit-down lover in Excelsior Springs, Mo., paused at Columbus for 10 minutes today on her flight to New York.

"Oh, dear!" Miss Hurlbut said as the TWA Sky Chief landed here. "I've been air sick ever since I left Kansas City."

"Isn't it awful about Harold?" she added, referring to Harold Hulen who started a sit-down when she wouldn't set their wedding date.

Capital Excited as Roosevelt Message is Read On Eve of Wagner Bill Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(UP)—An embattled bloc of conservative Democrats and Republican senators began today an historic battle against President Roosevelt's request for power to increase by six justices the membership of the Supreme Court.

Acting in the midst of a national labor crisis and on the eve of Supreme Court argument on the New Deal Wagner labor relations act, the president with a single swift move, brought congress to grips with an issue affecting the fundamentals of the governmental system. With the same speed, he started the house on by passing his judiciary reform bill, embodying the Supreme Court changes, without apparent effective opposition.

MANY SUPPORT, MANY CONDEMN F. D. R.'S ACTION

BY UNITED PRESS
Hearty approval and vigorous denunciation greeted President Roosevelt's proposals for federal court reforms. Typical comment: Sen. George W. Norris, Rep. Neb., the message graphically calls attention of the country to an unfortunate situation in the judiciary. I commend and agree with every word in that regard, but I doubt the wisdom of the remedy suggested.

Sen. Carter Glass, D., Va.: It is well known that I am opposed to any tinkering with the Supreme Court.

Chairman Henry F. Ashurst, D., Ariz., of the senate judiciary committee: President (later chief justice) William Howard Taft urged this same thing several years ago. (Continued on Page Eight)

COUNTY SCHOOLS DELAY PAIRINGS FOR CAGE MEET

Superintendents of county schools delayed pairing teams for the annual county tournament, opening Feb. 19, when they met Saturday.

Uncertainty concerning the fourth place boys' team and the four girls' teams was given by Supt. George D. McDowell as reason for the delay.

Some of the positions will not be known until after next Friday's final games.

The first four teams in the boys' division will be "seeded" in an effort to provide a more interesting tournament. Scioto, Ashville and Pickaway are certain of three of the places, but the other is not yet determined.

JUDGES MAY QUIT IF PLAN IS VOTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—(UP)—Resignation of several Supreme Court justices was regarded today as a highly possibly outcome of the most serious crisis centering around the court since the days of the Dred Scott decision.

The resignations are likely, it was believed, if congress approves President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the court's membership.

This development—a situation actually unequalled in Supreme Court annals since post-Civil War days—came as the court headed into what already was regarded as the climactic court arguments of this year's term.

These are the arguments on the vital Wagner Labor act cases, tests of the constitutionality of the keystone of the New Deal's labor legislative program, which, open Monday afternoon.

The Wagner act cases, coming at a moment when the administration automotive industry, provide what may be the only major test of New Deal legislation at this year's session of the court.

At least two members of the court eligible for retirement—Justices Willis VanDevanter and James C. McReynolds—are believed to have wished to resign for several years. The advent of the New Deal, it was thought, may have caused them to hold on because of a feeling that doing so they could defend in the court their own interpretations of the constitution on economic, social and political problems.

Both jurists described as ready for retirement have voiced tentative against new deal legislation.

Bishop Hobson Asks for Church and Red Cross Aid in Flood Areas

An appeal for flood relief funds, and full support of the Red Cross has been issued to the clergy and people of the Diocese of Southern Ohio by Henry W. Hobson.

Assistance for the sufferers, for the Churches which are caring for refugees in large numbers, and funds for the rehabilitation of the parishes are being asked by Bishop Hobson.

"Each day during the past week as I have visited our flood stricken parishes, or watched the care being given to men, women, and little children, in certain of our Churches, I have thanked God again and again that Christ's love rules in the hearts of so many who have given themselves without limit to help those in need," he wrote.

"I have thanked God for the courage and good cheer which has lifted those who have lost almost all they possess, and enabled them to look to the future with hope.

"What has happened has touched us all deeply. The facts are fresh in our minds, and I do not need to picture them again. You, the members of the Diocese of Southern Ohio, have been serving and giving in many ways. The Red Cross is doing a magnificent piece of work in the face of the

Jesus the Light of the World "BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 7 is the seventh, eighth and ninth chapters of John, especially John 8:12, 31, 32; 9:1-11, the Golden Text being John 8:12. "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life.")

TO A WORLD in hunger Christ came saying, "I am the bread of life"; in the darkness of spiritual blindness, "I am the light of the world"; to one to whom the door of spiritual fellowship had been closed by unwarranted excommunication, "I am the door"; to people at the mercy of false shepherds, "I am the good shepherd"; to friends bereaved by death, "I am the resurrection and the life"; to disciples troubled about the hereafter, "I am the way, the truth and the life"; to followers doubtful of their fruitfulness, "I am the vine, ye are the branches." Whatever our need, Jesus is its abundant supply.

"I Am the Light of the World" They were celebrating the Feast of Tabernacles. It was an annual pageant dramatizing the history of their ancestors' wandering in the wilderness. So for a week the people lived in tents and booths of branches as their fathers had for 40 years. In the wilderness wanderings God gave their fathers water from a rock smitten by Moses' rod. Here Jesus claimed that rock represented him, saying, "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink. He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, from within him shall flow rivers of living water." God had guided their fathers through their wilderness wanderings by a pillar of fire which was their light by night. This, too, as well as the smitten rock, was a type and foreshadowing of Christ: "Again therefore Jesus spake unto them saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life."

The Darkness He Came to Lighten How much the world of darkness needed Jesus as its Light! Those closest to him in his own family were in darkness regarding him and his mission to the world: "For Miss Helen Yates will conduct the discussion at the Epworth League meeting. All young folk of the church are urged to attend. Special services for the Portsmouth refugees housed at the church will be conducted by Rev. Sayre during the Sunday school hour.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John, Chapters 7, 8 and 9

At this feast Jesus claimed to be to them what the smitten rock and the pillar of fire were to their fathers. "I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness."

To prove his right to claim to be the light of the world Jesus healed a man born blind. He anointed the man's eyes with clay and told him to wash in the pool of Siloam.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred Z. Buehler

The man obeyed and returned saying to Jesus' enemies, "Whether he is a sinner I know not; one thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 8:12)

John 8:12—"I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life."

FLOOD PREVENTION
AFTER every flood it is unanimously resolved the destruction of life and property shall not happen again. Conferences are called, reforestation is discussed, levees and dikes are built higher and stronger and the construction of storage reservoirs to impound the run-off waters of feeder streams is advocated. Yet despite the engineering and financial resources of the country, no certain safeguards have been devised for the towns along the Ohio and Mississippi, although one of the valleys where events horrified the country in 1913 has withstood this flood.

Representatives of eleven states scoured by the present flood met in Columbus "to seek future ways to forestall flood devastation." The conference was sponsored by the Council of State Governments and on a promising note. It was with the Federal government. The council recognized the need for concerted action, and that is an advance.

Skeptics on flood control are referred to ex-Governor Cox of Ohio, Arthur E. Morgan, head of TVA; Gordon S. Rentschler, who is the president of the National City Bank of New York, or any of the thousands of the residents of the valley of the Great Miami River, who suffered an unprecedented flood almost twenty-four years ago and decided to do what they could do prevent a repetition of the horror.

The Great Miami is one of the tributaries of the Ohio. In Tecumseh's time and for generations after it was one of the streams that not only frequently caused destruction along its course, but also increased the havoc by the Mississippi. The builders of the Miami Conservancy District intended to save ourselves; then helped Southern neighbors; they helped the nation, and they gave it an example that might be profitably followed.

TOM PAINE'S ANNIVERSARY
THE two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Tom Paine finds a changed public attitude toward this firebrand of the revolution who, as recently as Theodore Roosevelt's time, was denounced by that President as a "dirty little atheist."

Mature and dispassionate study of Tom Paine's career serves to increase his stature as one of the really great leaders of the Revolutionary cause and one whose flaming spirit kept the struggle alive even during its darkest days, when the hopes of the most ardent were at a low ebb.

Even before more distinguished patriots came forward as champions of the cause of freedom, Tom Paine was preaching it and with vigor, courage and, when circumstances required, shrewd subtlety, carrying it forward with brilliant effectiveness.

Tom Paine's life was distinguished by a succession of tragedies. Like many leaders

World At A Glance

Much government money will be poured into the flood areas. That seems certain. But what is more important — a complete housing program may be adopted. Many house owners are unable to rehabilitate their damaged dwellings. It may not be possible to occupy many of the houses under two months. That is the real tragedy of the flood aftermath.

EARNINGS LOSSES
Actually, the loss in earnings to corporations due to the flood does not begin to compare with the losses accrued in the maritime and auto strikes, and the California citrus freeze. There was, of course, no loss to crops in the flood regions. That is an advantage of an "early" flood.

WRIGHT LOADINGS

BIG INDUSTRIES BACK MOTORS

WASHINGTON—One of the most important inside factors in the General Motors strike is the array of big shot industrialists who are giving the automobile company secret encouragement and backing.

It is not a fight in the automobile industry alone. Steel, coal, and other auto magnates know that if labor wins this war, their turn will be next, and they are urging an unyielding position on the part of General Motors.

Of these various figures, most recalcitrant and most powerful is Lamont duPont, Chairman of the Board of General Motors and head of the great duPont industrial dynasty.

Lamont duPont is the man who puts iron in the spine of the sometimes discouraged and wilting Alfred P. Sloan. It was Lamont who called off the conference which Miss Perkins proposed between Lewis and Sloan last week. It is Lamont who has blocked all attempted peace negotiations, and it is Lamont who will permit no voting of workers, because to do so would recognize the Wagner Labor Disputes Act.

NOTE—What Lamont duPont may not know is that John L. Lewis is just as much opposed to a vote of the workers, because it would show his union to be greatly in the minority.

BRITISH INFLUENCE

Alongside Lamont duPont is another shadowy figure, one of the most potent magnates in British industry. He is Sir Harry Duncan McGowan, head of the giant Imperial Chemical Industries, a director of General Motors and an important factor in moulding motor policies.

They think there is a lot. What they have been able to find so far is an interlocking arrangement between the duPont Company and McGowan's Imperial Chemistries, by which the two companies pool each other's patents and divide up the markets of the entire world.

BUSINESS FORESIGHT

Lamont duPont is the most hard-boiled, successful, shrewdest member of the duPont family. He is the man who became head of the Miscellaneous Manufacturing Department of the duPont factories and pushed cellophane and Duco until they became the backbone of the business. Meanwhile powder and munitions fell off.

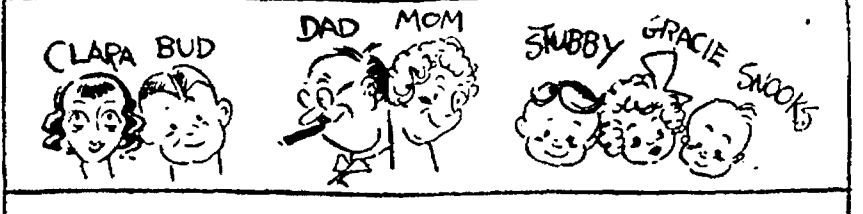

He is consistent down to the last dot on an i. Once his course is set, he never deviates. He determined to bring the duPont company through the depression and pay dividends. And he did. He fired 7,000 men, he slashed payrolls unmercifully, but he never missed a dividend.

of daring enterprises involving the remodeling of social structures, he knew imprisonment, lack of appreciation and understanding, persecution and impoverishment. His days ended in obscurity, privation and friendlessness.

Americans of today are largely indebted to him for their heritage of freedom and, even though his religious views shocked the conventionalists of his time, he has earned recognition as one of the great friends of the cause of human liberty.

DIET AND HEALTH

Their Names Differ But All Diseases Painful

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"YOUR BREATH AND YOUR HEALTH," by Louis H. Pearlman, M. D., covers a field that is of interest to everyone.

Dr. Clendening

The mere mention of the subject is calculated to stir up a lot of self-consciousness and false fear. You can't help thinking to yourself when the subject is brought up, "I wonder whether I have a bad breath."

It's my experience that your best friend will tell you. Your best friends are very few, and they are the ones who are most likely to get near enough to you to find out whether your breath is bad or not, and if it is, immediately apprise you of it.

The most important thing to do about the subject is to take this suggestive element out of it. It isn't so serious to have a bad breath. Most of the instances are temporary and due to processes in the mouth of which the owner is quite aware—such as healing after removal of a bad tooth.

Doctor Pearlman divides the causes of bad breath into local and systemic, and in the course of discussing them manages to get in about everything there is in medicine, including superstition and magic, the discovery of oxygen by Priestley and Lavoisier, and the functions of the red blood corpuscles.

The most constant and objectionable of the causes of bad breath is a local disease of the nose called "ozena." It is associated with a dry catarrh and considerable sloughing of the tissues. In order to heal it, the nose must be douches for a considerable period of time, until the mucous membrane is entirely healed.

Sinus infection One Cause

Sinus infection may give a bad breath. There is a story that an English physician lost his practice because the state of his breath became so offensive. He went to Egypt to relieve his nasal discharge, and while there worked out the fact that pus could form in the maxillary sinus, the large space lined with mucous membrane which lies in the cheek bone and empties into the nasal cavity. Most people with "sinus", however, do not have offensive breath.

Of the systemic causes, Dr. Pearlman lists first those odorous substances which are taken into the system in the form of food, drugs, etc., and carried by the blood stream to be eliminated by the breath.

Second are those waste substances produced in the course of bodily mechanisms or in diseased conditions and expelled into the lungs and so expired.

He lists such conditions as diabetes and constipation and bad stomach, kidney disease, etc. I don't follow Dr. Pearlman here. It is true that in advanced stages diabetes imparts a definite odor to the breath, but it is pleasant rather than offensive, and has been compared to almonds and apple blossoms. Kidney disease may impart a bad odor to the breath, but here again only in advanced stages. And constipation makes no change per se in the breath at all. And when Dr. Pearlman begins to descend on "The Poison of Fear", and how a poisoned mind poisons the body, he is flying in regions far removed from anything I know of as reality.

For practical purposes I believe that bad breath (or "bromophylia" which is the latest stylish name for it) is caused by local changes in the mouth or nose—decay of food particles, infected tonsil crypts, ozena, bad gums, coated tongue, etc. They can be very effectively combated by cleanliness—plenty of tooth paste, or gargling with a solution of chloramine, four and one-half grains, dissolved in two tablespoons of water, as suggested by Drs. Haggard and Greenberg.

JOEL WAS beginning to get anxious. His contract was up and the studio officials hadn't said anything about picking up the option. Meanwhile he was still working on the picture "Husband Hunter" with Tania Jarrett.

Janet was anxious, too, but she would not let Joel know that. She had been anxious ever since the day that Vernon Chester had been to their home nearly three weeks before. She hadn't told Joel about it. She hadn't even told him that she had lunched with the director at the tennis club.

There was no more tennis with Chester. He was working now, assembling his cast, working on the script for the ambitious picture and Janet had no way of knowing what had been on his mind after he had left the house that day.

She could only hope that he would not hold it against Joel that she had been overly ambitious for him. She vowed that she would never do that again.

Yet with the vow fresh in her mind, she called Laura Crowell and asked her to lunch with her. Laura was the private secretary of Max Browne, a powerful agent. Laura always knew what was going on, and Janet had her little way of drawing it out.

"Do you think Joel should have an agent?" Janet asked Laura. Laura thought it over before she answered, "Yes and no, Jan. If he were big enough to have a worth while agent, his agent could do a lot for him, but Joel hasn't distinguished himself."

Janet watched the danger signals in Joel's face. Joel, she knew, had sensed that the producer was not offering Joel that money unless there was something afoot for him that was worth while to the studio. And Chester had sent for him. Janet put two and two together. She prayed that Joel would not spoil the thing that she saw they had to do.

Joel opened his mouth. He said, "Seven-fifty a week..."

Poems That Live

NUBIA

A land of Dreams and Sleep—a popped land!

With skies of endless calm above her head,

The drowsy warmth of summer noonday shed

Upon her hills, and silence stern and grand

Throughout her Desert's temple-burying sand.

Before her threshold, in their ancient place,

With closed lips, and fixed, majestic face,

Notesless of Time, her dumb colossal stand.

Oh, pass them not with light, irreverent tread;

Respect the dream that builds her fallen throne,

And soothes her to oblivion of her woes.

Hush! for she does but sleep; she is not dead;

Action and Toll have made the world their own,

But she hath built an altar to Repose.

Floyd Bartley Shows Many Specimens of Ferns, Violets

Floyd Bartley, naturalist, was the guest speaker when Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Hunter delightedly entertained the members of the Pickaway Garden club at their home in N. Court street, Friday evening.

This meeting marked the monthly assembly of the club. Mrs. F. K. Blair, club president, presided at the business meeting and conducted the study outline for the club. Mrs. Richard Jones, club secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and called the roll, each member present naming his or her favorite vine. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Blair reported on the Musical tea and "Restoration of Williamsburg" lecture, which they attended at the Gallery of Fine Arts in Columbus.

Following the business session, Mrs. Blanche Mutschman, program chairman, presented Mr. Bartley, who is known throughout the state as the donor of some of the most outstanding specimens of plant and insect life, to the annals of our nature libraries.

Mr. Bartley displayed 38 specimens of the 51 known varieties of ferns found in Ohio, and interestingly related facts concerning their methods of propagation, habitats and also supplied the botanical as well as common names of each. He exhibited specimens of the more familiar types of mosses. He amazed his audience with his exhibit of specimens of over 30 varieties of violets found in Ohio giving the same information on these as was given on the ferns.

At the close of his talk action was taken by the club for a field trip in June under the leadership of Mr. Bartley.

At the conclusion of the program, the members and guests were invited to the dining room, where the tea table stood resplendent, gleaming with the light of tall red tapers and centered with a gorgeous bowl of pansies and winter marigolds. St. Valentine appointments were used on the table. Mrs. Howard Jones poured, and a social session ensued.

Ashville's First School Of Two Rooms Recalled

George Knepper Remembered as Initial Teacher For Grade Pupils

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

George Adam Knepper, father of Mrs. Cora Brinker, was the first teacher in the Ashville schools.

The school building was a two-room affair, two stories high. Later, as the population increased two more rooms were added, joining to the old structure on the south. The operation of the country and village schools was their under the control of a three-director setup who hired and fired teachers at will.

The trusty bickory gad had very much to do with school discipline then. The physical strength of the teacher applicant was the foremost qualification to be considered by school directors in that day. And "that day" takes us back to the 65-year, plus period.

Before these Ashville school buildings came into being, the children of this sparsely settled village attended school in the so-called Greenfield district. And many times have we heard how the "big boys" in this Greenfield district "mopped up" on one George Eversole, their teacher, and came out a poor second. He flogged 'em to a finish and the bullies were glad to get on the chalk line and stay put. Mr. Eversole had full charge with no back talk from any one.

George A. Hook, John H. Warner, William A. Parks, Martin L. Smith, were the other teachers, who in their order, succeeded Mr. Knepper. Clinton B. Shook was the first high school teacher. Those composing the first graduating class, 1896, were Ella Morrison, Gertrude Teegardin, Wilbur Hofflines, Walter E. Hoover, Orville Newton. The first two named are deceased.

Hoover Takes Job
Glenn Hoover, son of James and Mrs. Hoover is employed at the Sinclair gas station, taking the place made vacant by Herman Petty who is a student in a Chicago electrical school.

Hedges on Jury
Richard Hedges, Ashville, is serving on the federal petit jury in session at Columbus in Mell Underwood's court. Charles Gusman, formerly of Ashville, is bailiff.

Hollingsheads Plan Sale
Mr. and Mrs. Newton Hollingshead will soon be residents of Ashville, moving here directly after their sale of chattels which is next Tuesday, Feb. 9.

WILLIAMSPORT DEFEATS SCIOTO TOWNSHIP TO SCRAMBLE COUNTY LEAGUE.

TO 18 LEAD GAINED IN HOT FRIDAY BATTLE

Ashville Now in Tie for Top
With One Game to Play
Before Season Ends

PERRY LASSIES THREATS

Pickaway Quintet Runs Up
50-Count on Jackson

Williamsport's basketball team, held to two points two weeks ago by Darby township and boasting only a fair record the remainder of the season, assumed the role of the giant-killer Friday evening to knock Scioto township's highly-touted team off the top perch it had held from the start of the season.

The score was 20-18 in a thrilling game played at Williamsport. Williamsport was ahead at the half, but the score was tied at 18 as the final period started.

Scioto bumped Pickaway early in the season, took several other teams in stride, then whipped Ashville to make its lead appear safe. Then along came Williamsport. Ashville and Scioto are now tied for the league lead and The Daily Herald trophy that goes with it. Each has one game to play, Ashville at Monroe and Scioto as hosts to Walnut next Friday.

Perry Girls Strong

Perry township girls stood as a threat in the path of the Pickaway lassies today after defeating New Holland on the Bulldog court in a fast and rough 17 to 16 contest. Perry has fought its way into the first four and will play in the tournament varying any unforeseen developments. Next Friday Perry will have a chance to knock Pickaway out of its league leadership when the teams meet on the Atlanta court.

Muhlenberg turned back Washington township in a 24-15 encounter on the Darbyville floor, while the Washington girls turned the tables in a 17-10 tilt.

Ashville ran up a 46-19 score on Salsereek although playing without Hoover, first string guard. Mallory and W. Gregg led the scorers with 14 and 11, respectively.

Walnut gained a 19-15 edge over Darby township on the Walnut court, but the Darby girls put on the steam to win a 25-18 engagement.

Pickaway Scores 50

Pickaway hit the half-century mark against Jackson township in a 50-17 game played at Pickaway. Creighton Anderson's 18 points were high for the game.

Pickaway girls eliminated Jackson from a chance to get into the tournament with a 31-20 victory.

New Holland boys won from Perry, 24-11, with Ebert, a guard, leading the scorers with nine points.

Next Friday's schedule, ending the season, pits New Holland and Darby, the latter team at home; Walnut at Scioto, Pickaway at Perry, Muhlenberg at Jackson, Salsereek at Washington, Ashville at Monroe.

GOULD DEMANDS SOLDIER'S FIELD FOR LOUIS BOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Joe Gould, manager of heavyweight champion Jimmy Braddock, today called off the scheduled signing Monday in Chicago for a Braddock-Joe Louis championship fight.

"We agreed to sign for the match in Soldier's Field," Gould said, "and now I learn they are trying to push a ball park off on us. The site is highly important to us and nothing but Soldier's Field is suitable."

The Chicago promoters offered Braddock a guarantee of $500,000 or privilege of taking half the net receipts. Gould and Braddock were going to fly to Chicago tomorrow, but cancelled the flight.

Gould denied that legal threat of Madison Square Garden, which holds a contract on Braddock's first title defense, had caused him to cancel plans for signing with Louis.

OHIO UNIVERSITY CAGERS TO MEET CASE TEAM IN SEVERE COURT TEST

ATHENS, Feb. 6.—Ohio University's basketball team, leading the Buckeye Conference and winners of their last six games, will receive one of their severest tests of the season when the undefeated Case five is met here Saturday night.

The high riding Bobcats were originally scheduled to meet Cincinnati at Cincinnati Saturday night while the Case Scientists were to play Marietta in that city. Flood rehabilitation in both of these cities forced postponement of the games and Ohio Case arranged the match to be played here this week-end.

As both Case and Ohio University head their respective leagues, the game between them stacks up as one of the best to be played in Ohio this winter. Both teams will be fighting to maintain the honor of their conferences, Case Ohio Conference, and Ohio the Buckeye Conference.

The game Saturday will be the first for the Bobcats since they defeated Dayton here on Jan. 19. Since then flood waters and examinations have forced Ohio into a much needed rest from competition. During the first five weeks of the current season the Bobcats have played 12 games, more than any other collegiate quintet in the state.

If the Scientists are to keep unblemished their court record which has given them six consecutive victories this season they will have to throttle four of the first 10 scorers in the Buckeye. Nick Lalich, center, George Hood, and Gene Rinta and Johnny Malokas, guards, all Bobcat regulars, are at present ranking among the first 10 point getters in the B. A. A. To win Saturday Case will have to slow down this quartet.

OHIO STATE HAS CHANCE TO TIE FOR TOP PLACE

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Ohio State makes its bid for a first place tie with Illinois in the Big Ten basketball standings tonight against stubborn Minnesota.

Indiana and Iowa, which meet at Iowa City in the only other conference game, can cause little change in the standings.

Four victories and a single defeat placed the Buckeyes in a strong position to become a dangerous threat for the title if they can overcome Minnesota for the second time this season. Indiana is the only recognized top flight team the Bucks must face.

Four non-conference games, topped by the Illinois-Notre Dame battle at South Bend, also were scheduled. Wisconsin meets Michigan state at Madison, Loyola plays at Chicago, and Marquette invades Northwestern.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Greta Garbo's first love scene with Robert Taylor actually was staged in a blaze of glory at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for "Camille," which opens a 3 day showing at the Cliftona Theatre this Sunday.

Introduced by Director George Cukor, Garbo greeted her seventeen leading man in her eleven years of stardom with a smile and a formal "How do you do?" Taylor responded with a warm handshake.

Then they rehearsed their first scene for "Camille," the meeting in the box of a Paris theatre in 1877. Rehearsals completed, Cukor called for a "take."

Garbo was seated in an upper box. Taylor was leaning over the back of her chair, his lips brushing her hair.

"Fate must have had something to do with this, tonight," Taylor confided to her. "I've hoped for it so long."

AT THE CIRCLE

Souvenir hunters have been guilty of many strange deeds of vandalism but they should not have stolen Dudley Digges' leg.

As Old Bacchus, the ship's surgeon, Digges had hobbled on the prized leg—a wooden one—for four weeks during the filming of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mutiny on the Bounty," which opens Sunday at the Circle Theatre.

"It's like my own flesh and blood," Digges chortles in one of his scenes on the Bounty... and it was more truth than fiction for the leg had been attached to him so long.

Following three weeks of serene seclusion at the Catalina isthmus, the Bounty troupe was suddenly invaded by a battalion of sightseers and souvenir hunters from Avalon.

About This And That In Many Sports

Scioto Defeat Surprise

The upset of that Scioto basketball team last night took other teams and coaches by surprise.

Probably none was more surprised that Coach Snively of the Commercial Point team. His boys have been going along in great style, running up high scores against all comers, but, as it has proved time after time, no one can tell what will happen in Pickaway county class B competition.

How to Decide Winner?

What system will be used to decide the winner of The Herald trophy is not known; that is up to the county educators. — Ashville and Scioto have games to play next week, and it is possible, another surprise might develop.

About Zeh and Olson

Ray Zeh, Western Reserve's great backfield star, has turned down all offers to play professional football. — He will enter the employ of a construction company next spring after he graduates. — Ohio university has a "father and son" combination in connection with its grappling team. — Coach Thor Olson's son, Hjalmer, joined the team at the start of the second semester. — He was champion in the middleweight class of eastern prep schools while he attended Mercersburg, Pa., academy.

Cardinals at Cincinnati

The St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season pennant favorites, will oppose the Cincinnati Reds in the 1937 opening of the National League race. — It is scheduled April 20 at Crosley field. — The Boston Bees will play the first night game, Wednesday, May 19.

There are seven night games listed during the summer. — Eleven on ladies' days are carded. — The season will be ended in Pittsburgh Oct. 3. — About 20,000 orders for tickets for the opening game have been received, 400 of them being sent in while flood waters covered the ball park.

MARSHALL AND RAY STEELE TO GRAPPLE AGAIN

COLUMBUS, Feb. 6.—(UP)—Two fans were injured when struck by pop-bottle thrown during a demonstration which climaxed the heavyweight wrestling match here last night between the title claimant Everett Marshall and his challenger Ray Steele.

Marshall was awarded a disputed fall over Steele when he applied a hold while the latter was outside the ropes.

Dissatisfied with the decision of Referee Clete Kauffman, fans started a disturbance which necessitated a call for police help.

The Columbus Wrestling commission announced today it had reversed the referee's decision and would recognize Steele as the winner of the bout. The commission ordered the men rematched within 30 days with Marshall's title claims at stake.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

THE FIVE ROTHSCHILD BROTHERS WHOSE FINANCIAL STRENGTH (1806-1900) SWAYED THE CONTINENT OF EUROPE WERE BORN OF HUMBLE ORIGIN IN THE GHETTO OF FRANKFORT, GERMANY.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT BY-PRODUCTS OF SOAP-MAKING IS GLYCERINE, WHICH IN TURN IS THE BASIS OF THE EXPLOSIVE, NITROGLYCERINE.

OSTRICHES SWALLOW GEMSTONES, CUCUMBERS WHOLE FOR THE WATER. THEY CONTAIN GLYCE.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

UNFORTUNATE NOT INEXCUSABLE

MANY MORE errors are unfortunate, rather than being inexcusable. East called his partner's error in playing the hand, "inexcusable", when it was only unfortunate. Only double-dummy play could have fulfilled the small slam contract undertaken. Perhaps East's jump of his partner's game bid to a small slam, might have been called inexcusable, as bidding plainly showed West's lack of re-entry, or he would have been willing to play no trumps.

6 ♠ Q 9 5 3 2
7 ♠ K Q 9 5
8 ♠ 8 4 3
9 ♠ A K Q 8
10 ♠ A 7
11 ♠ A J 8 6 2
12 ♠ A
13 ♠ J 10 8 5 4 2
14 ♠ K J 10 6
15 ♠ 3
16 ♠ 10 6

Bidding went: East, 1-Spade, fourth hand; West, 2-Clubs; East, 3-Diamonds; West, 4-Clubs; East, 5-No Trumps; West, 5-Clubs, which should have been let alone; East, 6-Clubs, which passed undoubted. Only the declaring side was vulnerable.

The opening lead was the K of Diamonds. Dummy's Ace won. The Ace of clubs was led. The Ace of spades followed. All followed suit. The odds in favor of finding each defender with at least another spade were 13 to 1. The odds in favor of finding the missing trumps divided 2-1, after South had played the 6, were 3 to 1, or only about one-fourth as great as finding that North held at least one added spade, so declarer played the best odds when he ruffed a small spade, rather than ruffing high. To his disgust North overruled.

The Q of diamonds was taken, then a low diamond was led, only to have the trick ruffed by South, putting down the contract two tricks.

East declarer ruffed with one of his high honors, and then led off two rounds of high clubs, he would have avoided two ruffs. Then he could have led his 10 of diamonds and given North his Q of that suit. North could have led a heart, and taken out the Ace of that suit. Had he done that, declarer then could have ruffed another low spade and led his last diamond through North's 9-5, up to dummy's J-8-6, picking up North's two diamonds, or declarer could have discarded his last two red cards on dummy's K-Q of spades, when in with the Ace of hearts. Either method would have fulfilled his contract.

Making the small slam would have scored his side 1,570 points. Going down two tricks cost his side 200 points. The difference between those two scores was 1,770 points, but still he should not have been blamed.
